

GLOBAL GAP Status

All documentation from the grower to the CFP warehouse contains the grower's individual identification number; known as a "grower number."

The warehouse tracks the grower's certification status by matching this number to an identical number on a list of certified producers.

This list has been verified to be accurate during Quality Management System audits at the CFP warehouse.

If the grower also packs fruit with other warehouses they are responsible for providing the other warehouse with a copy of their certificate and that warehouse is responsible for managing and segregating their product.
